When it comes to 3D CAD modeling, today everything is possible. Look no further! Scan2CAD releases its free DXF-ready download packages every week. Once you click on a template, you can browse different views, read a full product description and see related products in the merry-go-round below. Once you click on it, you can get a better look with interactive templates that allow you to see from all angles. If you enjoy interacting with other CAD users and designers, it's not a bad deal. You can also search by specific brand (Edon CZ, Novatronix, Ravak) or by application (Bathroom Services, Office Equipment, Home Furnishings). AEC-DATA offers 35,232 3D models in a wide range of file formats, all absolutely free! You can refine your search using the various AEC-DATA categories or filtering options. Once you have selected a model, you can view the specifications (such as geometry and texture), product descriptions and labels. Although it takes a few minutes to get in touch with the site, it is incredibly useful for anyone working in the field of architecture or interior design. If you hover over a template, you can rotate it using the mouse. The site itself is very simple in design "it's not even remotely stylish like the other sites on our list" but boasts support for a wide range of file types. As with other sites on the list, CADnav also offers users the ability to filter by product/format, e.g. Cinema 4D (.c4d). In fact, it boasts a community of 5,350,000 engineers and over 3,180,000 CAD files. If you don't worry about paying for 3D models once in a while, TurboSquid also offers premium 3D models that reach over 700,000! To start your journey, just go to the Free 3D Models page. 6.
